

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A semiconductor element is formed in the major surface of a semiconductor chip. Curved surfaces having a radius of curvature of 0.5 to 50 μm are 5 formed at at least some of edges where the side surfaces and backside surface of the semiconductor chip cross.